Judge Sanders Knocked the 10:30 Ordinance Today.

He Gives Several Reasons Why it is Null and Void.

MAKES SOME SIDE REMARKS

The "10:30 closing law" was declared null and void by Judge D. L. Sanders in the police court this morning, the warrants against W. C. Gray and Charles Graham for violating the ordinance being dismissed on demurrer. Judge Sanders in his decision makes some strong points. Briefly, he said the ordinance had practically been declared invalid by the court of appeals, which stated that Judge Hunsbarger should have admitted the answer offered to be filed, setting out that the ordinance was null and void because it had not been properly recorded in the municipal board's journal and published. The failure to admit the answer, which would have resulted in the court's declaring it invalid because the proof shows it was not recorded according to law, caused the case to be reversed. This means it is sent back to be tried according to the court of appeals' direction, which is to allow the answer filed, and thus show that the ordinance was not properly recorded, and is consequently void.

Judge Sanders also made another point, which was that if he should fine the accused, Gray and Graham, they would appeal, make the point that the ordinance was invalid, and be reinstated, which would make the city liable to every one of the sixty or more saloonkeepers for all the business of which they had been unlawfully deprived by early closing. The court expressed the opinion that the privileges of no liquor dealer can be curtailed after the city has issued the license and taken his money. Laws regulating the liquor traffic, like laws fixing salaries, must be made before hand.

Judge Sanders made quite a hit in his side remarks. He said saloon men were no more to him than anyone else when it came to interpreting the laws, but that they were just as much and entitled to just as much fairness and justice as anyone else. That a few people stood around and talked about him, Judge Sanders, because he differed with them regarding what is law, and boasting that he would never be elected judge again.

"I want to say for their benefit," he declared, "that my term does not expire until January two years from next January. One man in particular who is a candidate for high office, is doing a good deal of talking, but if I didn't have any more show to be elected to the office than he does, I would never be a candidate for anything. But I don't care anything about those people who backbite a judge for deciding laws in accordance with the law as he understands it, and not as they want it decided. I'll say further that this candidate for high office probably does not know that I have been urged by hundreds of people to run for the very office he is now a candidate for, and while I am not going to run, I'll make him realize before the primary that I'm in Paducah."

Judge Sanders' decision in full is: Paducah Police Court, July 17, 1903.

City of Paducah versus Graham and Gray. Breach of ordinance.

The same questions involved in these cases now before the court were passed upon by this court in the cases of James McNulty, etc., and were carried before the McCracken county circuit court by ex parte petition and by T. P. Toof to the court of appeals.

After a presentation of the facts and decisions of the courts by Messrs. Thomas E. Moss and J. C. Flournoy, attorneys for the defendants, and J. O. Gilbert for the prosecution I still entertain the same views advanced by me in a former opinion and more so since reading the decision of the court of appeals. The following are my reasons:

LEO'S LIFE WENT OUT

The Venerable Pope Died at Four This Afternoon.

Rome, July 20—Pope Leo, after a most remarkable battle with death, surrendered at 4:04 this afternoon.

When the supreme last moment in the memorable life and reign of Pope Leo was expected hourly, the contrast between the quiet within and the excitement without the vatican was most striking. In the vast palace there was a hushed calm of expectation, the only apparent wakeful souls being the Swiss guards. The doctors and attendants of the dying pontiff spoke in whispers and moved noiselessly about. His tone was towards the last one of fear as though he felt himself abandoned.

In the piazza of St. Peter's, on the contrary, all is movement, there being a regular encampment of journalists before the famous bronze doors, which are now closed in their faces and behind which the regular tramp of the Swiss guards can be heard. Many eyes are glued to the window in the pope's chamber, overlooking the piazza, while the nearby cafes, especially those with telephones, are crowded.

Both the Italian government and the authorities of the vatican have made final preparations for the pope's death. The government is rigidly censoring all telegrams and telephonic communication between Italy and the rest of the continent.

Yesterday each hour added to the gravity of the reports from the vatican in regard to the pope, while some waited almost breathless in momentary expectation of his death.

At the morning conference the physicians noted a distinct change for the worse, particularly in the accelerated pulse, which has risen to 98, after remaining for many days at 88 and 90. The distinguished patient appeared to have lost all of that vitality which he has hitherto so remarkably maintained. He appealed piteously to those about him, asking not to be left alone.

Although his mental vigor was nearly exhausted, he again asked that mass be celebrated. This was performed in the room adjoining that in which the pontiff lay. He followed the ceremony and took communion with extreme difficulty. Almost immediately he sank into a state of complete exhaustion. At first this took on the character of an unnatural sleep, and he lay as one insensate, with his eyes closed. But occasionally he started up and cried out as though in fear. Gradually, however, his sleep became heavier and assumed a condition of semi-consciousness or torpor. About noon there was hardly any revival from this continued state of torpor, and the doctors remained continuously in attendance.

A THIRD MAN.

MAY HE CALLED IN TO TRY TAYLOR CONTEST.

Chairman C. W. Morrison and George C. Edwards, of the McCracken and Marshall county Democratic committees, respectively, held an informal meeting this morning and virtually decided to try the contest case brought by Attorney L. K. Taylor against Attorney John Lovitt, Democratic nominee for commonwealth attorney, with the assistance of a third party who will decide points on which the two regular chairmen cannot agree.

At a meeting held this afternoon, however, Attorney Lovitt declined to agree to a third person being called in and this part was abandoned, and the chairmen decided to hear the case themselves. They set August 31 as the date. This afternoon rules for procedure are being drawn up, and when they are finished the two principals will have until the latter part of August in which to prepare their cases.

FOR BREACH OF THE PEACE—Mack McKinney was arrested this afternoon for a breach of the peace and locked up to await the action of the court tomorrow morning.

NEAT SUM

WILL GO TO CHARITY FROM BALL GAME.

The net proceeds of yesterday's baseball game will be given to charity as soon as the necessary work of settling everything is completed, the amount to be turned over to Mayor Yeiser. It is not known exactly how much it will be, but will be a good deal. Yesterday's crowd was large, but many of them climbed the fence while the Good Government league was creating excitement.

TO RUN FOR MAYOR

JUDGE SANDERS RECEIVING MANY FLATTERING CALLS.

Judge D. L. Sanders of the police court is being urged to run for mayor by a great many Democrats who want a liberal, fearless man in the place. It is probable that the judge will not run, however, as he has two years more as police judge and seems to be well satisfied.

THE TEMPERATURE—The temperature today has been lower than in several days, the mercury marking only 89 at 2 o'clock. The lowest last night was 68, a very pleasant temperature.

AFTER THE BALL GAME IN THE LOCAL COURTS

Lively Time Encountered by Good Government Leaguers

Councilman Hummel Poured Oil on the Troubled Waters and No One Was Hurt.

WARRANTS MAY BE ISSUED

The Good Government league scored another defeat yesterday in its crusade against Sunday baseball. A committee from the league composed of Captain James Koger, Mr. B. H. Scott, Rev. W. H. Robinson Mr. W. T. Kirkpatrick and Constable A. C. Shelton, of the Sixth district, went to the ball grounds before the game started and attempted to buy tickets.

They had been spotted before they appeared at the ticket office, however, and the ticket seller received orders from the association not to sell them tickets, and the gate keeper not to permit them to enter. When they asked for tickets they were accordingly refused.

They then attempted to have tickets purchased by others for them, but were again unsuccessful. They stood around on the outside, and many spectators crowded about the gates and climbed the fence to jeer them. Some of the sallies were very amusing, but there was no disorder, and soon after the game started some of the committee left.

After the game, however, Rev. W. H. Robinson, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Mr. W. T. Kirkpatrick, a carpenter, were about the entrance with notebooks taking names. According to the statements of eye witnesses, some one in the crowd, which was pouring out of the gates, observed it, and shoved Mr. Kirkpatrick across the ditch, and somebody on the other side shoved him back. He was pushed or caused to step across a time or two, and finally reached the side near the fence and remained. His notebook was partly torn and a card he attempted to write on thrown away. Rev. Robinson was also jostled.

At this juncture Councilman Will Hummel, who was on his way to the cars like the remainder of the people, succeeded in getting the attention of the crowd, and stated that no harm should be done the two men. That he believed public sentiment was in favor of Sunday baseball for those who desire it but if any disorder occurred or any violence were used, it would turn that sentiment against it. The incident ended and Rev. Robinson and Mr. Kirkpatrick then went to the cars.

The various reports of some one assaulting the two gentlemen, slapping them, or drawing bricks or sticks on them are untrue. There was no hostility shown them according to reputable witnesses, except by one or two, although it was evident from the temper of the crowd that it would not have taken much to start something. It is said one preacher stated from his pulpit last night that a mob surrounded the gentlemen with bricks and other weapons, but he was misinformed. Most of the crowd present was attracted by the incident, and crowded around simply through curiosity to see what was going on, and few said anything. Many of those who did were only "jolly" the Good leaguers.

Rev. Robinson's version is: "After being refused admittance to the grounds I lingered on the outside. I was standing in the road near the entrance with Mr. Kirkpatrick leaning against a wagon.

"The first intimation I had that the game was over, I heard some one say: 'There they are,' and almost instantly Mr. Kirkpatrick and I were surrounded by a howling mob which increased, as the crowd from the game poured from the gate.

"Some one came up and attempted to snatch Mr. Kirkpatrick's notebook from him, while several caught hold of him. He jumped across a ditch at the side of the road and got away from them only losing the back of the

L. & N. Sues to Condemn Stockyard Property.

Desires to Abolish the Trestle and Construct a Fill—Police Court.

WARRANTS AGAINST PLAYERS

L. & N. SUES MRS. BARNHILL.

The L. and N. railroad, which operates the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, today filed suit in county court here against Mrs. Annie Barnhill for the condemnation of property near the old Barnhill, now the Thompson Stockyards, southwest of the city. The railroad company claims it desires to abandon the long trestle near the stock yards and construct a fill, and that it cannot do so without using about 78 feet of the defendant's property on each side of the track, and alleges the owner has refused a fair valuation, necessitating condemnation proceedings. The company owns right of way and now asks that the other property needed be condemned. Messrs. S. B. and R. G. Caldwell and C. E. Jennings were appointed appraisers by the court. The fill, if constructed, will do away with a great deal of danger and inconvenience and will be a great advantage to the city, as well as to the railroad.

The Globe Bank and Trust company was today appointed guardian of Mamie, Ethel, Henry and Felix Johnson.

CASE CONTINUED A WEEK.

The case against Pitcher Freeman, for playing baseball one Sunday last month, was called by Justice Young this morning and continued until Saturday. Freeman's case is the only one of sixteen instituted by the Good Government league, the others being dismissed, and there having been a hung jury at two trials of it. The defendant left the city several days ago and it is not believed will return.

NEW WARRANTS ISSUED.

Warrants were today issued against Captain Ray Gage, of the Paducah team, and the manager of the Clarksville team for playing ball yesterday, and the trials will come up in Justice Barber's court at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. They are blanket warrants covering all the players in both clubs.

IMPORTANT CASE AT MAYFIELD

An important test case has just been decided at Mayfield, and will be taken to the court of appeals. If it is there affirmed it will save the Mayfield Water Co. many thousand dollars. The style of the suit is the Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance Co. against the Mayfield Water Co. for $5,000, which was paid by the insurance company for losses sustained by Ligon & Allen, tobaccoists, in the fire there a few years ago. It was claimed the water company failed to supply water, and thus caused the insurance company the loss. About 150 witnesses were examined, and twelve hours were consumed in argument, the jury returning a verdict in favor of the water company. A similar suit of the Northern Insurance Co. against the water company was then withdrawn until the court of appeals can decide the one just tried.

SALOONKEEPERS WARRANTED.

Warrants have been sworn out in Justice Jesse Young's court against S. A. Womble, Ninth and Court, and Charles Decker, Ninth and Washington, for keeping open their places of business June 28. The cases will be tried this week.

THE SEACOAST CASE.

Tomorrow it is expected to begin taking depositions in the Seacoast Mineral Co.'s bankruptcy case. An effort is being made by John Mulholland, the president, who has put nearly all the money into it, to have it declared bankrupt, and the case was taken up in New York recently and has been set down for August 5. An effort is being made to have the trustee empowered to lease the plant and

A STRANGE VISITOR

Old Sol Now Has a Guest Within His Doors.

The Brightest Comet for Twelve Years Is Now Plainly Visible.

WILL BEGIN GETTING DIM

A big comet that is attracting the attention of the scientific world at present is visible to the naked eye any clear night, and is growing brighter. In a few days its tail will probably be visible.

Horrely, a Frenchman, first saw it floating into the view of the telescope at Marseilles, France, on June 21. Since then it has been traveling at a terrific pace toward the sun, until now it is seventeen times as bright as when first seen. On August 22 it will pass the sun and begin to grow dimmer and dimmer until it disappears again. It is not like most stars, but has a milky, cloudy look instead of being a point. An astronomer thus tells the residents of Paducah how they can see the comet between 9 and 10 o'clock.

"Standing in a position exactly facing the north, find the point directly over your head. Then let your gaze travel from that point directly north for about one-fourth of the distance from this point to the horizon. The comet can be readily recognized by its distinctly cloudy appearance. In case the sky is obscured, it can be seen the succeeding night in a place a little northwest of this point, as that is the direction it is traveling. It is hard to say whether the comet will ever again come into view of this world."

This new visitor of the solar system will be found, according to the Lick observatory astronomers, about six degrees southwest of the bright star Alpha Cygni—the brightest and most northern member of this constellation, and a star of the first magnitude.

The constellation popularly known as the Swan lies not far to the east of Vega, also a first magnitude star, and almost twice as far almost directly south of the familiar and conspicuous Pole Star.

As it is speeding on its parabolic path with enormous velocity toward the sun, under whose fierce radiation of heat its two prominent tails are very rapidly swelling in size, the celestial wanderer ought to be easily recognized, and it may very soon become, as Prof. Campbell expects, the brightest comet of the past ten years.

The two prominent tails already observable in the comet will, no doubt grow possibly into startling proportions before the comet reaches perihelion, which it will do next month, but when it leaves the solar system and plunges again into the cold depths of space these striking appendages will contract upon the central mass or be largely lost to the retreating comet.

According to the measurements of the new comet based on photographs taken by the Yale observers, the tail of the comet is at least 3,000,000 miles long. Prof. William L. Elkin, director of the Yale observatory, said:

"The comet is the only important one seen in the past eight years, when the Rordame was discovered. It is the brightest comet since Smith's, about 12 years ago. At Yale we have done nothing about it except within the last two nights, when we have taken photographs of it. It will be at its brightest from now until July 21, when it will begin to grow dim as it gets nearer to the sun. It will probably be visible for the next couple of weeks, and just now is just about as bright as the pole star. Its situation is between the constellation Laura of Signus and the north pole, quite near the Milky Way. It passes the sun on August 21, when it will be about 31,000,000 miles distant from that body.

The photographs taken last night show a long tail to the comet, which is not visible to the eye. The negative shows this tail to be divided in the middle, really making two tails. According to the observations of people who have made special study of this comet, it is about 26,000,000 miles from the earth, at present, and rapidly traveling away. On July 21 it will be about 30,000,000 miles away. It is traveling by the earth at about 25 miles a second. The negative we have shows the nebulous portion of the comet to be about 1 degree in diameter, or 400,000 miles. The tail is 7 or eight degrees in length, at least 3,000,000 miles in length. We cannot tell accurately how much longer the tail may be, because we can not tell how we are looking at it. These figures only represent the shortest possible tail."

Hughes, Paducah, and Atlas Knott, Woodville, took examinations for county school certificates, the first two securing first grade certificates and the other third grade. Mr. Hughes, who was formerly county superintendent, will probably teach school this fall.

NAPOLEON AT THE HEAD.

Conceded to Have Been the Most Famous Man That Ever Lived.

Napoleon is the most famous man who has ever lived, says Prof. J. McKeen Cattell of Columbia university, in the Popular Science Monthly.

Prof. Cattell has taken the six principal encyclopedias in the world—American, English, French and German, and made out a list of the 1,000 famous men and women who are given the most space.

As a result of his long labors, he has found that Napoleon heads the list, Shakespeare comes second, Mahomet third and Voltaire fourth.

George Washington, the first American in the list, is number nineteen. The other Americans on the roll of fame are mentioned in the following order:

Penn, Lincoln, Franklin, Jefferson, Grant, Longfellow, Prescott, Chandler, Sherman, Emerson, Madison, J. Q. Adams, Cooper, Thomas Paine, Patrick Henry, Fulton, Sumner and Monroe.

THE BOSS WORM MEDICINE.

H. P. Kumpke, druggist, Leighton, Ala., writes: "One of my customers had a child which was sick and threw up all food; could retain nothing on its stomach. He bought one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and it brought up 119 worms from the child. It's the boss worm medicine in the world." White's Cream Vermifuge is also the children's tonic. It improves their digestion and assimilation of food, strengthens their nervous system and restores them to the health, vigor and elasticity of spirits natural to childhood. TOWARDS THE WEST

Former Paducahan Preparing to Leave Old Kentucky.

Captain W. H. Sandusky Will Go to California and Probably Loose There.

HAS HAD MANY ADVENTURES

Yesterday's Louisville Times says of Capt. W. H. Sandusky, formerly of Paducah, and who for years kept the Sandusky house at Eleventh and Broadway:

Capt. W. H. Sandusky, proprietor of the Sandusky house at Central City, Ky., where he has been continuously in business for twenty-eight years up to June 15 last, expects to leave early in August on a hotel prospecting trip through California. Capt. Sandusky has a number of attractive offers under consideration, but prefers to go and see for himself before he decides upon a change of location.

The Western country is not new territory to the captain. In 1850 he drove an ox team across the plains and mountains from Booneville, Mo., wintering at Salt Lake City, and in 1854 he returned to the East as the pilot of a mule team from Salmon Falls, Ore., to Kansas City. In '51, '52 and '53 Capt. Sandusky rode the pony mail between Salmon Falls and Portland, Ore. The California congressman, Hon. Marion Cannon, is Capt. Sandusky's kinsman, and is especially anxious that he transfer his activities from Kentucky to the land of flowers and sunshine.

The captain's life story is varied and interesting. His ancestors were Kentuckians and his grandfather, Jacob Sandusky, carried the chain with Gen. George Rogers Clark when the survey was made marking the boundary line between Kentucky and Tennessee. Capt. Sandusky began his steamboating career in 1846 on the Monongahela river and continued it until 1849, plying between Pittsburg and Louisville. After returning from the West in 1851 he became a pilot between St. Louis and New Orleans, in which capacity he continued until the breaking out of the Civil war, when he was engaged in steamboating on White river. As proprietor of the Sandusky house at Central City the captain is a landmark, and there isn't a traveler up and down the Illinois Central railway or on the Owensboro and Nashville railway to whom he isn't pleasantly known.

HOPES BLASTED

MR. ED HANNAN DECLINES TO RUN FOR MAYORALTY NOMINATION.

Mr. Ed Hannan of the council, who was called on to run for the Democratic mayoralty nomination, has formally declined to make the race, and at present no one else is talked of to get into the game. It is reported that persons interested in the nomination of Col. Joe Potter, who are alleged to have been the prime movers in the effort to get somebody else to run with a hope of weakening Mayor Yeiser's support, one day last week offered a certain city official $800 for expenses if he would run, but he declined.

Mr. John U. Robinson, who has been for some time engaged in the job printing business, has taken a position with The Sun in the advertising department. Mr. Robinson's efficiency in the mechanical work of newspaper offices has gained him an excellent reputation in this line, and The Sun is pleased to add such a capable man to its force.

ARE YOU LOSING WEIGHT

If so then your system is out of balance, and there is a flaw somewhere in your constitution, and a possibility that you are losing health, too. The falling off in weight may be slight, but it makes a wonderful change in one's looks and feelings, and unless the building up process is begun in time, vitality and strength are soon gone and health quickly follows. If you are losing weight there is a cause for it. Your blood is deteriorating and becoming too poor to properly nourish the body, and it must be purified and enriched before lost weight is regained. It requires something more than an ordinary tonic to build up a feeble constitution, for unless the poisons and germs that are lurking in the blood are destroyed, they will further impoverish the blood and weaken the system, and you continue to lose weight.

In S. S. S. will be found purifying and tonic properties combined. It not only builds up weak constitutions, but searches out and destroys germs and poisons of every description and cleanses the system of all impurities, thus laying the foundation for a healthy, steady increase in weight and future good health.

Food may be bountiful and the appetite good, but still the system weakens and we remain poor in flesh unless what we eat is properly digested and turned into rich, pure blood. S. S. S. re-inforces the Stomach and aids the digestion and assimilation of food, and there is a rapid up-building of health and strength. S. S. S. acts promptly and beneficially upon the nervous system, strengthens and tones it up, and relieves the strain by producing sound, refreshing sleep. You can find no tonic so invigorating as S. S. S., and being composed exclusively of roots and herbs its use is attended with no bad effects. Old people will find that it braces them up, improves the circulation of the blood, and stimulates all the bodily organs, and persons of delicate constitutions can take S. S. S. with safety, as it does not derange the Stomach like the strong mineral remedies, but acts gently and without any shock to the system. Those whose feelings tell them they are not strong or well, and who are growing thinner and falling below their usual weight, should take a course of S. S. S., and build up again. S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the leading blood purifier and the safest and best of all tonics. We cheerfully furnish medical advice, without charge, to all who will write us.

WONDERFUL GAIN IN WEIGHT.
Huntsville, Ala., Jan. 10, 1909.
Some years ago my general health gave way; my nervous system was shattered, and I could get nothing to do me any good till I began to use S. S. S. I commenced to improve at once. My appetite became splendid and from 135 pounds I increased to 180. I became well again by taking S. S. S. and would take no amount for the good it did me. My health is now perfect, and I believe if every body would take a bottle of S. S. S. occasionally, they would enjoy life as I am doing. W. L. WINSTON.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEES OF KENTUCKY

James H. Wilhoit, the nominee for lieutenant governor, hails from Floyd county, of the Ninth district. For years he has been actively engaged in the politics of that county. He served that county for years as county attorney. He sought an election as commonwealth's attorney, but went down in defeat. His opponent was M. M. Redwine, of Elliott county, a brother of Judge Redwine. Mr. Wilhoit has always been an advocate of the principles of the Republican party, and always came to its assistance by offering his services as a speaker for its candidates.

JOHN A. BLACK.

John A. Black who secured the nomination for treasurer, is a lawyer. He comes from Knox county, of the Eleventh district. He is a typical mountain man, and speaks with the drawl of the men of that region. Mr. Black is a brother of James D. Black, who was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Judge Black is now a follower of the Republican ticket and was a delegate to the convention.

W. M. BECKNER.

W. M. Beckner, who secured the nomination for attorney general with little difficulty, is as the title of the office indicates, also a lawyer. He was formerly an active worker in the ranks of the Democratic party, but went to the other side in 1896. Mr. Beckner was a member of the constitutional convention. He is also an ex member of congress. Mr. Beckner is a resident of Winchester. He is well known throughout Central Kentucky, where he has a large law practice.

J. C. SPEIGHT.

J. C. Speight received the nomination for secretary of state after a brief fight. He is a resident of Mayfield, Graves county. Mr. Speight led the bolt against Senator Jo Blackburn a few years ago. Mr. Speight was for two terms a member of the legislature. He is known throughout the state.

GEORGE W. WELSH.

George W. Welsh, the nominee for auditor, is a resident of Danville, Boyle county. He is a prominent banker of that city. Mr. John W. Yerkes, who also hails from that section of the state, is a close personal friend of Mr. Welsh. Mr. Welsh is a man of wealth and is a member of the state central committee from the English district.

J. H. NEWMAN.

J. H. Newman, the nominee for the office of clerk of the court of appeals, has been actively engaged in politics since he was eighteen years of age. He lives at Tompkinsville, Monroe county, of Eleventh district. At present he is general deputy collector of internal revenue of the Second district. He is located at Owensboro under E. T. Franks. He has served his home county in various capacities. When eighteen years of age he was elected a deputy sheriff of Monroe county. When only three years older he was serving as county attorney. He held the position for two terms.

LIVINGSTON CARTNEY.

Livingston McCartney, who will oppose James H. Fuqua at the November election for the position of superintendent of public instruction, is a resident of Henderson county, living in the city of Henderson. He came to that city from Chicago to accept the position of superintendent of public schools in that city.

GEORGE W. BAKER.

George W. Baker, who will make the race for commissioner of agriculture on the Republican ticket, resides in Greensburg, Muhlenberg county. Mr. Baker is the secretary of the United Mine Workers of this state. He has never held a political office.

would in all probability result in his contracting the disease, and that then there would be no one to take care of him. His reply was, 'Well then, I will take care of myself.' He lived through it all and was quite a hero among the people of the then small town, and greatly revered and respected by all for his manhood and his love and sympathy which he had shown in his devotion to the sick and distressed.

"Soon after this, a revival of the sentiment to do something to start the town to growth and development, it was determined to construct a railroad from Paducah to New Orleans. The first rails received were unloaded on the river bank between Broadway and Court street and were hauled up the bank by wagons.

"This same man laid the first rail on Court street constructing the track out Court, where it intersected the contemplated main line which was to be built from Broadway towards Mayfield. After the road had been built for a few miles he quit the road, purchased him a horse and dray and began the business of draying and hauling water about the town from the river, which he did by placing on his dray a large hoghead with a large hole cut on the bulge of the hoghead, through which he poured the water dipped from the river and delivered it to his patrons about the town.

"At the beginning of the war he was yet engaged in that business and became known very well to many of the people of the town and many of the soldiers who were at that time stationed here. There had been quite a number of our citizens joined the Southern army. One of them had been captured in some skirmish by the Federal troops and brought here and put in the guard house. His some means he escaped from the guard house and met on Broadway street about Maiden alley the man about whom we write, driving out Broadway with his hoghead of water. He stopped the driver, who recognized him at once, and said to him, 'How can I get out of this town?' His reply was 'Wait a minute; I think I can fix it. I will drive down the alley towards Jefferson street and you follow me.' So between Broadway and Jefferson streets he pulled the stopper out of his hoghead and let the water out. Then he beckoned the man to get on top of the hoghead, and into it he went. He threw the cloth over the hole, and driving out Jefferson street to Ninth street, where he came to the pickets, who hailed him and asked where he was going with his water. He told them his water was for sale and asked them if they wanted water, if not let him alone, for the people were waiting for it just beyond. They replied: 'Ah, go on, you red mouth Irishman, we want no water.' He drove out until he passed what was then known as Cross creek and went into the woods, took the cloth from his hoghead and freed the soldier, who escaped and fought through the war and is yet living and a prominent citizen of Tennessee.

"It is impossible for the writer to bring out the humor and circumstances of this transaction, but if you should find hereafter who the man is we are writing about get the actor to describe in detail the manner of his freeing the soldier, and if you are at all dyspeptic and relish humor you will be very greatly relieved and rejoiced and get a clear conception of the transaction.

"If you were to guess who this man is, none but the few who know of the transaction would ever pick the right man, though he is one of the few men of Paducah who will attract the attention of everyone he meets by his walk and the character of his speech.

"I scarcely know whether he will recognize himself from the foregoing description of his conduct. If he does not, if he should read this I will tell him who he is the first time I see him, if he will agree not to draw his shellies and challenge me for a fight."

Not "Equally Good."

His attention has been called to Brewer's Readers' Handbook as a comprehensive book of reference, and it was with the intention of buying this compendium that a well known citizen went into a store the other day and began rummaging among the books. Not finding it, he turned to the clerk, a young and inexperienced fellow and inquired:

"Have you a Brewer's Handbook?"

The latter fumbled nervously, around for a while and then, producing a small volume, said:

"We don't have any book of that title, but I have one here that may be of equal service to you. It is the 'Bartenders' Guide.'"

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Tuesday.

DAILY THOUGHT.

The commander of the forces of a large state may be carried off, but the will of even a common man cannot be taken from him.

The grand jury at Evansville, in its final report on the recent riots, does not mince words. It exonerates the militia and says Indiana is to be congratulated on having such brave men. In regard to the mob itself it declares: "The unfortunate affray of Monday night, July 6, was brought on by riotous hoodlums, who were encouraged by the presence of great crowds. The soldiers were attacked by the mob that fired the first shots, and in self-defense the soldiers returned the fire. While some, perhaps, were killed who were not actively engaged in the assault, still their presence aided and encouraged the lawlessness. The state of Indiana is to be congratulated on having such brave men in its military companies."

Mr. Bryan's principal grievance is still obviously the fear that Grover Cleveland will be nominated by the Democrats for president. An Eastern paper suggests that Mr. Bryan should "meet Mr. Cleveland on equal terms—Mr. Cleveland having already had two."

The Democrats, with a forlorn hope of discrediting the Republican state ticket, have started their usual campaign of misrepresentation. About the only argument they offer is that some of the candidates "were formerly Democrats." This is sufficient evidence that they are men of sound judgment and integrity, for they are not Democrats now.

An Ideal Match.
As might be expected, William M. Chase, the artist, knows a great many young persons of that artistic temperament which dreams a lot more than it does. Among these is a young woman who can write stories and a young man who can paint pictures. One day Mr. Chase, who exemplifies the fact that Genius is half Labor, was talking to the young man about his dreaming abilities, and mentioned the young woman as another one going along the same primrose path of dalliance.

"I'd like to meet her," said the young man, unabashed. "Won't you introduce me? I want that sort of artistic temperament in the woman I marry."

"Of course I will," replied Mr. Chase sarcastically. "It would be a great combination, and you could be everlastingly busy illustrating the stories she doesn't write with the pictures you don't paint."—New York Times.

HOPTOWN GOING DOWNWARD.

Cairo, Ill., July 30—Cairo won a hotly contested game yesterday from Hopkinsville in the presence of 1500 people. The score was Cairo 6, 7, 2, Brockett and Rutledge; Hopkinsville 1, 4, 4, Keller and Street. Brockett struck out twelve men.

HOPKINSVILLE CLUB INCORPORATES.

The Hopkinsville New Era says: Articles of incorporation were filed this morning in the office of County Clerk Prowse for the Hopkinsville baseball club. The capital stock is $750. Stock will be sold in shares of $5 each, and every one who has already subscribed that amount to the support of the club will be entitled to a share for every $5 subscribed. The incorporators are: Sam Frankel, S. J. Samuel, Wm. H. Cummings, Jr., and W. M. Hancock.

This move makes the performance of the baseball club, so far as this season is concerned at least, a surety. The company begins business on au equal footing with any other legally authorized corporation, but the individuals connected with it cannot be held responsible for debts made by the company. It is proposed by the incorporators to have a club next year, and it is not at all unlikely that the present element of the league will be retained for next season.

DOPE.

A shakedown is rumored in baseball circles. It is said that Pitcher Best, instead of "jumping his contract," has gone to Cincinnati to get new players.

The umpire ought to be respected. People do not go to baseball games to hear "rag chewing," and the Paducah players ought to be given strict orders to keep off the diamond and not detract from the interest of the game by running out to protest over every close decision. Yesterday in every decision against Paducah that caused a wrangle the Paducah boys would have "beefed" just as hard had it been a Clarksville man running and the umpire hadn't called him out.

A game or two like yesterday's will revive interest among the fans. This is a good ball town, and if the managers do not try to impose on good nature too long, it will remain so.

Arthur Long, an outfielder for the Lexington team, has been telegraphed for and will arrive in a few days to play in the field for Paducah.

J. W. Tilford, of Louisville, an infielder and pitcher, will probably play here for two or three weeks. He gets his vacation within the next two weeks and wants to play with Paducah until it is over.

Betts and Holmes, for Clarksville, Orr and Perry, for Paducah, will be the batteries for this afternoon's game.

Hedges, from letters received here by friends, will probably be the star pitcher for the Milwaukee team. He is said to have signed Wednesday night for $200 per month. This is a medium salary for a pitcher in the American association if he is good enough to hold the position down.

BECOMES NATURALIZED.

William Rouff, a well known resident of the county, has become a naturalized citizen of the United States. Two years ago he took out preliminary papers, and Saturday afternoon applied for his final papers, and they were issued by County Clerk Graham. He was a German subject previous to his naturalization.

POLICE COURT.

Most of the cases before Judge Sanders today were misdemeanors. Allen Walters, Tom Clark, A. Jerry and J. L. Wallace were fined $1 and costs each for plain drunks.

Katie Powell, colored, an old offender, was fined $50 and given 20 days in jail for disorderly conduct yesterday.

George Williams, who has been working on the Cairo extension of the I. C., was fined $25 and given ten days in jail for carrying a pistol.

The case against Will Cashion for throwing rocks in Worten's addition, was continued until Thursday.

Tom Kelley and Mattie Moore were fined $10 and costs and $1 and costs for a breach of the peace.

Hill Chambers was fined $20 and costs for a breach of the peace.

Alf Hale and Laura Smith, colored, charged with stealing a $5 gold piece, were partially heard and the woman dismissed and the case against the other left open.

Marshal Crow will in a few days sell four hogs impounded by the city authorities.

CHINESE CASE DISMISSED.

U. S. Commissioner W. A. Gardner today dismissed the one remaining Chinese case, in which Lin Sing was the defendant. The Chinaman had not only resided in this country since long before the exclusion laws were passed, but had also been regularly naturalized. No appeal will probably be taken by the government.

Theatrical Notes.

Manager J. E. English has closed his season at Wallace park, but the Casino theater may run the remainder of the summer. The Forepaugh circus is the first to be billed in this section this season, and will be here August 28. R. G. Ball, the agent, was here yesterday. The Barnum & Bailey show will also be in this section and show probably here.

Every one is looking forward to the coming engagement of "The Wizard of Oz" which is booked for appearance here next season. This extravaganza has had such remarkable runs both in Chicago and New York and has been so extensively advertised throughout the entire United States that it is sure to play to capacity business here.

Trainmaster Sheridan Returns From Indiana.

Car Men of Fulton Join Local Union —Notes from the Shop.

Trainmaster Sheridan has returned from Indiana, where he was called two weeks ago by the death of his father. Dispatcher Allan Jorgensen has filled the position during Mr. Sheridan's absence with much ability and credit. Dispatcher J. B. Alvey, who has been working here temporarily, left today for Louisville to resume work.

Miss Moore of St. Louis has recently been added to the force of nurses at the I. C. hospital. She has already become quite popular with the patients and hospital officials.

Mr. Joe Vance's little child fell from a porch on its head late Saturday afternoon and was badly hurt, but is improving and will recover. Mr. Vance is a lineman for the street car company.

Thomas Whitelaw, colored, of South Eighth street, who was injured Saturday by a hoghead rolling partially over him at Sixth and Trimble streets, will recover, although his injuries are very painful and will disable him for some time.

J. Guffy, a young man of near Slater, Ballard county, was accidentally shot by Oscar Ward with a 22-calibre rifle, the ball striking him in the left temple. Hope is entertained for his recovery.

It is expected that something definite will be heard this week from President Burns regarding the new railroad proposed to be built into Paducah via Golconda, Ill., and supposed to be a branch of the Wabash. A local committee has been working for several weeks on the proposition to raise a subscription for securing the new road. The road is also negotiating with Metropolis, Ill., officials to go through there, in which event it would probably not come here.

Work on the custom house addition is progressing, and the excavation for cellar and foundation is being made as rapidly as possible. A tramway has been constructed from the workshop, where the stones are to be shaped up, to the building and Broadway, where the stones will be carried as needed.

The city electric light plant is in a fair way to give improved light service, as the new machine bought from the Fort Wayne Electric Works has arrived from Fort Wayne, Ind., and will be installed by Mr. J. W. Hilgeman, from the factory. It is an eighty light dynamo, and will be a great improvement over the old one.

Mr. Frank Millard, scale clerk at the local I. C. yards, lost $20 yesterday morning while going to work. The young man had drawn his pay from the pay car Saturday and cashed it Saturday. He had a $20 bill and some silver yesterday morning in his pocket and while riding his wheel from home at 1320 Jackson street dropped the bill. He has been unable to find it.

Messrs. Earl Johnson and J. W. Watts of the local I. C. Order of Railway Carmen, went to Fulton Saturday to organize a lodge of Railway Carmen. There were nine applicants and all applications were taken in the local order, the gentlemen deciding that there were too few men at Fulton to organize a branch. There are prospects for three more applications this week.

The I. C. pay car left this morning at 6 o'clock for Louisville and will return Wednesday en route south. The pay car finished work here Saturday night and laid over at this place Sunday. This is the first time this has happened in many months.

Mr. W. B. Gilbert of the master mechanic's office here returned from Louisville this morning after a visit to friends and relatives.

"One advanced from the crowd, and proposed that I be searched for any papers I had in my pockets. He attempted to do so, but I told him to stand back, and he did. Another made an effort to write on my shirt front, but I also succeeded in repulsing him.

"About this time I heard some one say behind me, 'Do not throw that brick,' and in front of me I saw some one in the act of aiming a brickbat at me.

"Mr. William Hummel then appeared on the opposite side of the ditch and by his protest stopped proceedings.

"A man I knew then invited me to cross the ditch and he and several others escorted me to the car. I was not molested further."

There is talk of swearing out warrants against those who touched the two men but none have been yet.

The general impression of those who witnessed the demonstration was that it was largely the outburst of resentment in a few irresponsible persons against men they thought were meddling and were there for no good purpose, and that most of those who gathered around the two gentlemen were attracted simply through curiosity, and had no thought of violence and would not have permitted it.

The Ministerial Association Transacted No Important Business This Morning.

THE LOCAL REVIVAL WORK

There were two additions to the Tenth street Christian church yesterday.

No business of importance was transacted in the meeting of the Ministerial association in the office of Rev. G. W. Perryman of the First Baptist church, this morning.

The tent meeting conducted by Rev. T. J. Owen in Mechanicsburg was well attended Sunday. It will continue through this week.

Rev. George O. Bachman, minister at the Cumberland Presbyterian church, left this morning for his former home in Nashville to bring his family here.

IN BUILDING CIRCLES

Bids for the Brick Streets Opened This Afternoon.

There Are Five This Time—Other News of Building World.

Bids for constructing several blocks of paved streets advertised for some time ago by the city were opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the city hall, and there were five. When they were opened about two weeks ago there were only two, G. W. Katterjohn, of Paducah and W. H. Bailey, Henderson.

Today there were five submitted, from G. W. Katterjohn and Ed O. Terrell, Paducah; W. H. Bailey, Henderson; Bedford & Nugel, Evansville, and Wm. E. Everrode & Co., Columbus, Ind. They will be submitted to the city engineer for a report to the council this evening for action.

Architect B. B. Davis is making plans for a store and flat building, to be erected by Mr. Ex McFadden of St. Louis on Broadway near Seventeenth, adjoining the Lawson property.

Brick work on the Fraternity building was completed today.

Several Victims of Mishaps Reported Better.

Accidents at the Shops—No Grafting Necessary on Dick Taylor.

Charley Harvey, colored, a boiler cleaner at the local I. C. round house, was pretty badly injured yesterday morning while working in an engine. He was cleaning flues when his hand came in contact with a sharp pointed instrument used in this work. The point was thrust through his right hand, entering the palm and coming out in the back. The injury is very painful and the patient is now in the hospital for treatment.

George Gibbs, sawyer at the Williams mill at Calvert City, was badly hurt by the hursting of a grumming wheel. A fragment struck him in the forehead and rendered him unconscious, but did not fracture the skull. He will probably recover.

S. P. Aleman, an I. C. machinist, got his hand caught in machinery at the shops yesterday and two fingers mashed off.

Richard Taylor, who was brought here several days ago and placed in the city hospital for treatment to burns sustained in an accident near Union City, Tenn., is better. His back was burned and at first it was thought skin grafting would have to be resorted to, but the doctors now think he will recover without it.

Mr. O. F. Row, chief clerk in Mayor Mechanic T. F. Barton's office, turned this morning from Cincinnati.

THOUGHT THE CATSUP GOOD.

And Not Until Next Morning Did He Know What He Had Taken.

Mr. Robinson is inordinately fond of catsup. When he went into the pantry just before going to bed it was for the purpose of getting a sandwich for he was hungry.

"Where's the catsup?" he called to his wife, after he had found the pile of sandwiches.

"It's there on the shelf. Do you want a light?" his wife replied.

"No," said Robinson, as he groped in the dark until he found a bottle.

He pulled out the cork, poured a lot on the sandwich and then began eating.

"That's good catsup," he said to his wife as he was going to bed, "but it has a peculiar flavor."

In the morning, when Mrs. Robinson went to the pantry, she gasped. Then she ran out to where her husband was sitting ready for breakfast.

"Well, I never!" she exclaimed. "Gus Robinson, do you know what you did?"

"Did?" said Robinson. "What do you mean?"

"Why, you silly man," replied the wife, "you poured rough medicine on your sandwich, and thought it was catsup."

Power of Birds.

What tremendous power an eagle exerts when carrying away a lamb that weighs, say, sixty pounds or over! If you take the weight of the bird altogether, 76 pounds, then it appears that an eagle can develop more than two horse-power, and must put a strain of over 1,100 pounds on the muscles of the wings.

THE PERFECT LIVER MEDICINE.

Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Noble, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years and can cheerfully recommend it is the most perfect liver medicine and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find a lodgment in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever-producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

King Sells His Automobile. In consequence of the recent attempt upon his life, King Leopold of Belgium has resolved not to ride in his motor car in the future and has ordered it sold.

REPULSIVE FEATURES.

Blackheads, pimples, greasy faces and muddy complexions, which are so common among women, especially girls at a certain age, destroying beauty, disfiguring and making repulsive features which would otherwise appear attractive and refined, indicate that the liver is out of order. An occasional dose of Herbine will cleanse the bowels, regulate the liver and so establish a clear, healthy complexion. 50c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

Novel Road-Making.

A new road for transport by automobile is being constructed in the Congo Free State, and at present it extends 450 kilometres. The method pursued is simple enough. All that is done is to drive a herd of forty elephants three or four times over the track marked out by surveyors. They level down obstructions as efficiently as a steam roller.

Hard

Work Caused Nervous Prostration,

Heart Trouble and Great Suffering.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured Me.

Where the symptoms of heart disease and weakness are present together with those of nervous trouble, much benefit may be derived from the use of both Nervine and Heart Cure. The Nervine quiets the weary brain and brings sweet sleep, it brings the needed nourishment to the nervous system, restores nerve-force, vitality and energy. The action of the Heart Cure is equally beneficial. It aids the good work of Nervine by enriching the blood, improving the circulation and by its tonic action steadying and restoring the heart beats or pulse to their normal activity.

"Some years ago while I was connected with the Western Nebraska Conference as Presiding Elder, I was so overworked that I became greatly run down in health and suffered for two years with nervous prostration and heart trouble. At first I had spells of heart palpitation and smothering, and later there was a great deal of pain in the region of the heart and a feeling of oppression in the chest. During all this time I was very nervous, irritable and unable to sleep. Being advised to try Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure and Pain Pills, they proved exceedingly beneficial to me, affording complete and permanent cure. Since then your remedies have frequently been used by myself and family and always with the best results."—R. V. C. H. POLHEMUS, U. R. Church, Washington, D. C.

OUTING SPOTS IN THE NORTHWEST

There are many places in the country of the Northern Pacific, some inexpensive, others better and more expensive, where one can spend the summer days pleasantly and healthfully. Among these are Walker in the Leech lake country, and Detroit and Battle Lake in the Lake Park region in Minnesota; Eaton's ranch, near Medora, N. D.; Hunter's Hot Springs in the Yellowstone valley, and Missoula and the Bitter-root valley in Montana; Lakes Pend d'Oreille and Clair d'Alene, Idaho; North Yakima in Eastern Washington, and Green River Hot Springs in the Cascades; Tacoma, Seattle, Port Townsend, Port Angeles and Victoria on Puget Sound, and many places along the Columbia river and on the Pacific Ocean from Portland as a center.

Those east of the Mississippi who wish a needed change should go to the Rockies or the Puget Sound and Columbia river and sea coast country. We can only hint at these things here, but write us giving particulars as near as you can, and we will try to give you the needed information to enable you to find what you want. And don't forget that Yellowstone Park is the chief of all tourist shrines.

"No, I didn't, for you are just my sort of a Christian—better'n me, a sight, for you don't shoot off yore gun on one side or t'other, an' that's the hubb I'm tryin' to quit. If I could hold in when Pole gets to spoutin', I'd be a better man. I think I'll do better now. I've got a temporary nail in my pocket, an' whenever he starts in I'm goin' to bite it an' keep my bolt on it."

"If you are a-goin' home, I'll rest yore legs."

till he stops. Yes, you are just my sort of a Christian. You believe in brentin' fresh air into yore windpipe, thankin' God with a clear eye an' a good unsele an' takin' what he gives you an' axin' 'im to pass more of it's handy. You know the Lord has sent you an invite to his table, an' you believe in eatin' an' drinkin' an' makin' merr'y, jest like you'd have a body do that was stoppin' over night with you. Yes, I wanted to say someth' else to you. As I got to the Widder Snowden's house, a mile this side of Darby, she came out an' axed me if I'd object to deliverin' a couple o' smoke cured hams to a feller in town that had ordered 'em. Of course that's what a old buch like me 's heer fer, so I let 'er fling 'em in the back end."

The speaker paused and smiled knowingly, and Alan noticed that he showed his horses up by drawing firmly on the reins as if he feared that their arrival at the farmhouse might interrupt what he had to say.

"Well," said Alan, "you delivered the hams?"

"Yes," Abner was looking straight ahead of him. "They was fer Colonel Seth Barclay. I driv' up to the side gate, after I'd helled in front till I was horse, an' who do you reckon come trippin' out o' the dinin' room? It was her. Ef you hadn't never ketcher 'er off'n her guard round the house, you've missed a treat. Durned if I don't like 'er better without a hat on than with all the fluff damoodle that gals put on when they go out. She was as neat as a new pin, an' seemed powerful glad to see me. That made me bless the Widder Snowden fer sendin' me that. She said the cook was off somethin', an' that old nigger Ned, the stableman, was in the garden patch behind the house, so she was that by 'erself. She actually looked like she wanted to tote in the hams 'erself, ruther'n bother me, but you bet my old bones hopped off'n this seat quicker'n you could say Jack Robinson with yore mouth open."

"I was afeerd my team wouldn't stand, fer fellers was a-scootin' by on bicycles, but I tuck the hams to the back porch an' put 'em on a shelf out o' the reach o' the dogs. Then I went back to my wagon. She follered me to the fence, an' I noticed that some'n was wrong with 'er. She looked so funny an' droopy about the mouth, an' kept a-talkin' like she was afeerd I'd fly off. She axed all about Adele an' how she was a-makin' out down in Atlanta, an' said she'd heard that Sis was mighty popular with the young men, an' from that she axed about my craps an' the meetin' goin' on at Big Bethel. Finally she got right white about the mouth an' said kinder shaky that she was afeerd you was mad about some'n her pa'd said about you, an' I never seed a woman as high cryin' as she was with out doin' of it."

"I told 'er I was at the foot of it, but I'd noticed how worried you've looked heer of late, an' so I told 'er I'd been afeerd some'n had come betwixt you two. Then she put her head down on the top rail o' the fence an' held it thar fer a good minute. After awhile she looked up an' told me all about it an' ended by axin' me if I thought she was to blame in the matter. I told 'er no, but her old skunk of a daddy had acted sech a fool that I couldn't hold in. I reckon I told 'er jest about what I thought o' 'im, an' the more I raked up agin' 'im the better she seemed pleased. I tried to pin 'er down to what she'd be willin' to do in a pinch ef 'er pa continued to hold out agin' you, but with you an' didn't want no row nuther."

The horses stopped to drink at a clear stream of water which ran across the road on a bed of brown pebbles. The bridges were too tight to allow them to lower their heads, so Alan went out on the heavy tongue between the pair and unfastened the reins. When he had regained his seat, he told the old man in detail all that had happened at the dance at the hotel, ending with the advice he had received from Rayburn Miller.

"I don't know about that," Abner said. "Maybe Miller could call a halt like that an' go on like nothin' had happened. I don't say he could n'r couldn't; but it's fool advice. You might miss it, an' regret it to yore dyin' day."

Alan looked at him in some surprise. He had hardly expected just that stand on the part of a confirmed old bachelor like him. The old man's glance swept drearily over the green fields on either side of the road across which the red rays of the setting sun were streaming. Then he took a deep breath and lowered the reins till they rested on the backs of the horses.

"My boy," he began, "I'm a good mind to tell you someth' that I hain't mentioned fer mighty nigh forty year. I don't believe anything but my trust in that town gal an' you would make me bring it up. Huh! Ray Miller says you kin pass 'er over jest as ef you'd never seed 'er, does he? An go on an' pick an' choose agin. Huh! I wasn't as old as you are by five year when the one I'm talkin' about passed away, jest a week after me an' her'd come to a understandin'. I've seed women, women, women, sence I seed 'er corpse that day amongst all that pile o' wild flowers that old an' young fetched from the woods whar the an' 'er used to walk, but ef I live to be as old as that thar bill I'll never forget my feelin'.

I kin see 'er right now as plain as I did then, an' sometimes my heart aches as had. I reckon you know now why I never got married. Folks has poked a lots o' fun at me, an' I tuck it as it was intended, but a lots o' times what they said made me suffer simply awful. They've picked out this un an' that un, from spring chickies to hags o' all ages, shapes an' sizes, but the very thought o' givin' anybody her place made me sick. Thar never was but one fer me. I may be a fool, but I believe I was intended fer her. Shucks! Sech skip abouts as Miller may talk sech bosh as that, but it's becuse the Lord never give 'em the glory o' the other thing."

"It hain't me the truth about the after life. I know thar's a time to come, an' a blessed one, ur the Lord never would 'a' give me that taste of it. She's someth' out o' harn's way, an' when me 'n' her meet I'll not have a wrinkle an' I'll be able to walk as spry n'r hopeful as I did when she was heer. Thar ort to be punishment reserved fer hard headed fools that separate lovin' young folks becuse one ur t'other hain't jest so many dollars tied in a rag. Don't you listen to Miller. I don't say you ort to plunge right in an' make the old man mad, but don't give up. Ef she's what I think she is, an' she sees you ain't a-goin' to run after no fresh face, she'll stick to you like the bark on a tree. The wait won't hurt anther one of you either. My wait ain't hurtin' me an' yore'n won't you. I never seed a young woman I liked better 'n I do the one you selected. An' I've sent up nunny n petition thar you'd both make it all right."

The old man raised his reins and checked to his horses.

"Uncle Ab," said Alan, "you've made a better man of me. I've had a lot of trouble over this, but you make me hope. I've tried to give her up, but I simply cannot do it."

"She ain't a-goin' to give you up nuther," replied Abner; "that's the purty part about it. Thar ain't no give up to 'er. She ain't that sort. She's goin' to give that daddy o' ber'n a tussle."

CHAPTER XI.

NE morning early in June, as Alan was passing Pole Baker's cabin on his way to Darby, Pole's wife came out to the fence and stopped him. She was a slender, ill clad woman, who had once been pretty, and her face still had a sort of winifut attractiveness that was appealing to one who knew what she had been through since her marriage.

"Are you goin' to town, Mr. Alan?" she asked nervously.

"Yes, Mrs. Baker," Alan answered. "Is there anything I can do for you?"

She did not reply at once, but came through the little gate, which swung on wooden hinges, and stood looking up at him, a thin, hesitating hand on his bride rein.

close my eyes all last night."

"I'll do all I can, Mrs. Baker," Alan promised. "But you mustn't worry. Pole can take care of himself, drunk or sober. I'll be back tonight."

Alan rode on, leaving the pathetic figure at the gate looking after him. "I wonder," he mused, "what Uncle Ab would say about love that has that sort of reward. Poor woman! Pole was her choice, and she has to make the best of it. Perhaps she loves the good that's in the rasel."

He found Rayburn Miller at his desk making out some legal document. "Take a seat," said Miller. "I'll be through in a minute. What's the news out your way?" he asked as he finished his work and put down his pen.

"Nothing new, I believe," said Alan. "I've been away fer two days. Not havin' anything else to do, I made it my business to ride over every foot of my father's big investment, and, to tell you the truth, I've come to you with a huge idea. Don't laugh. I can't help it. It popped into my head and sticks, that's all."

"Good! Let me have it,"

"Before I tell you what it is," said Alan, "I want you to promise not to ridicule me. I'm as green as a gourd in business matters. But the idea has hold of me, and I don't know that even your disapproval will make me let it loose."

"That's a good way to put it," laughed Miller. "The idea has hold of you, and you can't let it loose. It applies more closely to investments than anything else. Once got into a deal and you are afraid to let it go, like the chap that held the calf and called for help."

"Well, here it is," said Alan. "I've made up my mind that a railroad can and shall be built from these two main lines to my father's lumber bonanza."

Miller whistled. A broad smile tinged the pucker of his lips, and then his face dropped into seriousness. A look almost of pity for his friend's credulity and inexperience came into his eyes.

"I must say you don't want a little thing, my boy," he said indulgently. "Remember you are talking to a fellow that has rubbed up against the moneyed world considerably for a chip raised in the country. The trouble with you, Alan, is that you have got heredity to contend with; you are a chip off the old block in spite of your belonging to a later generation. You have inherited your father's big ideas. You are a sort of Colonel Sellers, who sees millions in everything you look at."

Alan's face fell, but there remained in it a tenacious expression that won Miller's admiration even while he deplored it. "There was, too, a ring of confidence in the young farmer's tone when he replied:

"How much would a railroad through that country, eighteen miles in length, cost?"

"Nothing but a survey by an expert could answer that even approximately," said the lawyer, leaning back in his creaking chair. "If you had the right of way, a charter from the state and no big tunnels to make nor long bridges to build, you might, I should say, construct the road alone—without locomotives and rolling stock generally—for a little matter of one hundred and fifty thousand. I don't know; I'm only guessing; but it wouldn't fall under that estimate."

"I didn't think it would," replied Alan, growing more enthusiastic. "Now then, if there was a railroad to my father's property, how much would his 20,000 acres be worth?"

Miller smiled again and began to figure on a scrap of paper with a pencil. "Oh, as for that," he said, "it would really be worth—standing uncut, unsaved, including a world of tan bark—at least $25 an acre—say a clear half million for it all. Oh, I know it looks as plain as your nose on your face; things always do on paper. It looks big and it shinks; so does a spider web in the sunshine to a fly, but you don't want to be a fly, my boy, and you don't want any spider webs—on the brain anyway."

Alan stood up and walked to the door and back. Finally he shrugged his broad shoulders. "I don't care what you say," he declared, bringing his hand down firmly on Miller's desk. "It will pay, as sure as I'm alive. There's no gettin' around the facts. It will take a quarter of a million investment to market a half million dollar bunch of timber, with the land thrown in and the traffic such a road would secure to help pay expenses. There are men in the world looking for such opportunities, and I'm going to give somebody a chance."

"You have not looked deep enough into it, my boy," mildly protested Miller. "You haven't figured on the enormous expense of running such a road and the dead loss of the investment after the lumber is moved out. You'd have a railroad property worth a quarter of a million on your hands. I can't make you see my position. I simply say to you that I wouldn't touch a deal like that with a ten foot pole."

Alan laughed good naturedly as he laid his hand on his friend's shoulder. "I reckon you think I'm off," he said, "but sooner or later I'm going to put this thing through. Do you hear me? I'll put it through if it takes ten years to do it. I want to make the old man feel that he has not made such a fool of himself. I want to get even with the Thompson crowd and Perkins and everybody that is now poking fun at a helpless old man. I shall begin by raising money some way or other to pay taxes and hold on to every inch of the ground."

Miller's glance fell before the fierce fire of Alan's eyes, and for the first time his tone wavered.

sons and those given by the court of appeals and attorneys in the case. There is really nothing before me to be tried, for the court of appeals reversed the judgment of the lower court and sent the case back for further direction for proceedings consistent with the decision. The attorneys for defendants demur to the warrants against Graham and Gray, and their points on the demurrer, is that the ordinance under which the city proceeds is null and void, because it is in conflict with section 59 of the constitution of Kentucky, in that the city council under this section had no power whatever to enact such an ordinance, and in conflict with section 61 of the constitution, because it is not a general law, such as is provided.

First, That it was never passed in the manner provided by the charter for a city of the second class.

The charter for cities of the second class contains a provision that the general council shall cause all ordinances passed by them to be fairly recorded in the journal of proceedings, the records of the said council show that this alleged ordinance never was recorded in the journal of proceedings of the board, it was passed by the council on November 17, 1902 and by the board of aldermen December 4, 1902, but was not recorded in the proceedings of either of these meetings. In the case of McKenney against the city of Louisville 7th book, page 651, it was held that unless an ordinance was fully recorded in the journal of proceedings of the council, it was not a valid ordinance, and in the case of Ludlow vs city of Covington First Metcalf, page 295; the court of appeals held that said council could speak only by its records, and unless its records showed all the necessary facts connected with the passage of an ordinance parole evidence was not admissible to show that it had actually been passed, and further, held that said council whose membership had been changed, as was in the passage of this ordinance, could not correct or amend the records of a former council.

It is also asserted by defendants' counsel that this ordinance is entirely invalid even if properly passed; but it is not the intention of defendants to admit this ordinance was ever passed as is recorded by law.

This court would most respectfully urge that all parties that are so strenuous in enforcing the law, should lay aside prejudice and be thoroughly able to convince a court that it was lawfully passed, and conforms to the law of the land.

These defendants were licensed to carry on their business and my opinion is that it is illegal to place a limit as to time by ordinance subsequent to granting the license. I do think the recording of this ordinance in any book except the journal does not comply with the law and would render the ordinance invalid. In the first place I have no mandate to guide me from the court of appeals. Now we come to what the court of appeals say in regard to the facts set up by attorneys for the defendants.

"The appellants McNulty and Graham, saloon keepers, tendered and offered to file an answer controverting the validity of the ordinance upon the ground it had not been published as required by section 3045, Kentucky statutes which requires such publication before an ordinance shall be enforced. If the publication has not been made in fact as required by the statute then the ordinance could not be enforced." The evidence before me shows that the publication of the ordinance had not been made as required by section 3045 of the Kentucky statutes.

The court of appeals further says: "The answer should have been permitted to be filed (by the circuit judge) and the question of fact as presented investigated."

Section 3045, Kentucky statutes says: "Each board shall keep a correct journal of its proceedings."

The court of appeals says further: "Section 3063, Kentucky statutes provides that the general council shall cause all ordinances and resolutions and bylaws passed by them to be fairly recorded in the journal proceedings."

The appellate court says further: "We are of the opinion that if the proceedings were enrolled upon the journals and then after approved by the bodies whose action they represented and signed by their respective presiding officers that the requirements of the section would have been complied with." From the proof before me this was not done as the board in the meantime had changed some of its officers.

I call attention to sub-section 27 of section 59 of the state constitution: "Liquor regulating sale of—Section 59 says: 'Limitation upon.' "The general assembly shall not pass local or special acts concerning any of the following subjects or for any of the following purposes, namely: After enumerating a large number of sub-sections it says in sub-section 27 of section 59: "Liquor regulate the sale of" to provide the means of taking the sense of the people of any city, town, district, precinct or county, whether they wish to authorize, regulate or prohibit therein the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, or alter the liquor laws."

Your attention is also called to sub-section 29 of section 59 of the constitution: "Special law not to be passed—when in all other cases where a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted."

In their conclusion the court of appeals says: "The judgment is reversed and this case remanded with directions for proceedings consistent herewith."

Therefore the case of James McNulty stands in the same attitude in the circuit court as it did before an appeal was taken.

This court sees no cause why the demurrers should not be sustained and the warrants dismissed against Graham and Gray.

game at Wallace park yesterday morning and the former quit in the fifth inning on account of the snip. The game at this juncture stood 16 to 3 in favor of the Peeps but the score will stand 9 to 0, a forfeited game.

The Jackson Streets defeated the Fourth Street Rounders yesterday by a score of 16 to 22.

The L. A. L. team, formerly the Sterlings, defeated the Shamrocks yesterday morning by a score of 7 to 0. This is probably the best amateur game played here in some years. Mr. Ed Brahm, the catcher for the victorious team, was struck in the eye by a ball and slightly injured.

Pete Dunn, the "old reliable," will umpire this afternoon's game. Pete is probably the best man Paducah has ever had and will no doubt give satisfaction. Fitzgerald is a good umpire although he does get a little off on close decisions.
